DETAILED ACTION

Election/Restrictions

1. Restriction to one of the following inventions is required under 35 U.S.C. 121:
 - I. Claims 1-3, drawn to a porous silica granule, classified in class 428, subclass 402.
 - II. Claims 4-12, 14-25, 27-37, drawn to a method for making a porous silica granule or powder via a hydrolysis method, classified in class 423, subclass 336.
 - III. Claims 13, 26, and 32, drawn to a method for making a porous silica granule or powder via the sol gel method, classified in class 423, subclass 338.

The inventions are distinct, each from the other because of the following reasons:

2. Inventions II and I are related as process of making and product made. The inventions are distinct if either or both of the following can be shown: (1) that the process as claimed can be used to make other and materially different product or (2) that the product as claimed can be made by another and materially different process (MPEP § 806.05(f)). In the instant case the product could be made by another and materially different process, such as dispersing fumed silica into water to form a slurry, controlling the pH of the slurry to a range of 1-4 while stirring, and drying the slurry by heating it with a hotplate.

Art Unit: 1773

3. Inventions III and I are related as process of making and product made. The inventions are distinct if either or both of the following can be shown: (1) that the process as claimed can be used to make other and materially different product or (2) that the product as claimed can be made by another and materially different process (MPEP § 806.05(f)). In the instant case the product could be made by another and materially different process, such as through a sol-gel method comprising the steps of obtaining a gel body by the hydrolysis of a high purity alkoxysilane, followed by drying and size reducing the resultant body simultaneously, and then applying a purification treatment.
4. Inventions II and III are unrelated. Inventions are unrelated if it can be shown that they are not disclosed as capable of use together and they have different modes of operation, different functions, or different effects (MPEP § 806.04, MPEP § 808.01). In the instant case the different inventions have different modes of operation. Invention II is directed towards forming porous silica granules via a hydrolysis method, whereas invention III. Is directed towards forming porous silica granules via a sol-gel method.
5. Because these inventions are distinct for the reasons given above and have acquired a separate status in the art as shown by their different classification, restriction for examination purposes as indicated is proper.
6. A telephone call was made to Kenneth Macklin on 6/28/02 to request an oral election to the above restriction requirement, but did not result in an election being made.

Applicant is advised that the reply to this requirement to be complete must include an election of the invention to be examined even though the requirement be traversed (37 CFR 1.143).

7. Applicant is reminded that upon the cancellation of claims to a non-elected invention, the inventorship must be amended in compliance with 37 CFR 1.48(b) if one or more of the currently named inventors is no longer an inventor of at least one claim remaining in the application. Any amendment of inventorship must be accompanied by a request under 37 CFR 1.48(b) and by the fee required under 37 CFR 1.17(i).
